

COMMUNITY- CONTROLLED RENEWABLE ENERGY

Imagine a world based on sustainability and community, where people collectively own and manage their own energy systems. At Jura Books we are trying to create this world by working to build a powerful grassroots social movement. We also want to prefigure this world by installing a grid-connected solar power system on our building. Please help us make this a reality - any donation would be greatly valued, no matter how small.

Discussion evening: Community action towards a climate just world

Climate campaigner and renewable energy researcher Nicky Ison will give a presentation on European community energy projects; the benefits and challenges of community renewables. She will also discuss what is happening here in Australia and what we can do together. Nicky has recently returned from a study tour of 28 community renewable energy projects across Europe.

► 6.30pm Thurs 5 May. All welcome!

Please donate to help fund community-controlled solar power in your local area

Jura Books is going solar, but we need your help. We are a not-for-profit bookshop, library and social centre. We operate on the principles of anarchism - freedom, equality, and participatory democracy.
